THE CHILDREN'S CHRISTMAS SERVICES AT THE M. E. CHURCH LAST NIGHT.-The servi cas were introduced with joyful songe and recitations in honor of the birth of Christ. This included the ringing, by six boys and girls, of Christmas bells, which were suspended in the arch over the platform. Then came the services which were intended to present and illustrate four historia events or scenes connected with the birth of Christ. 1st. The appearance of she star of Bethlehem. 2d. The announcement to the Shepherds on the plains of Judes. 31. The coming of the wise men of the East .-4th. The offering of gifts to Christ. In carrying out this programme the follow ing were among the most striking features: The room being darkened a star was seen to ascend to its place in the arch, while a beautiful low song "Sliver Night" was sung by a trio of voices. Three little girls sung the familiar soog "Hush my dear lie still and slumber." white perfect silence prevailed. The song of the "l'bree Kings" was heard in an adj in ing room, sung by three male voices. The emire number of children and young people, bumbering somewhat over 300, marching in order, presented their offerings as they passed the chancel, their gifts ecclosed in cay lopes, being received by the pastor, and part of them so arranged as to spell the word love in large letters. It is to be par ricularly mentioned that the entire programme was successfully estried out without any rebersal, and that no one participating knew what was to be done, excepting his own part, so that the services were a surprise to the whole audience. The manner is which the participants acquitted themselves, and the order observed by the entire audience of children were exceedingly creditable. The church was beautifully and appropriately decirated with evergreen festoors, mottoes, crosses, wreathes, stars and anchors.

CHARLOTTE THOMPSON .- As heretofore noticed. Miss Charlotte Thompson appears at Sarepta Hall to night as Jane Egra in the well known drama of that title. She has just finish. ed an engagement in Richmond, and the Dispatch of that city in noticing her performance

"Miss Bronta's story of an orphan's wrongs, a governess' trials, and love's triumphs over two troubled souls, is one that has appealed to thousands of sympathetic hearts, and i of such a good company as told it last night, could not fail to please. Miss Thompson deserves the reputation she has won, and in this her favorite character is truly great. The conflicting emotions-as where stinging under s sense of injustice she dutifully struggles on and learns to forgive her termenters-are represented with a truthfulness and power which entitle her to something more than conventioal praise. Her support was very good. Taken as an entirety, the company is the best one that has been here this sesson, and the audience of last night, seeing and appreciating it, was far more liberal in appleuse than Richmond people are usually disposed to be. The evening was a delightful

POLICE ITEMS.—No cases were reported by the Major or now of the magistrates, yester-

Justice Thompson had before him this morning the two negroes, Robert Tate and Wm. Green, whose arrest, last week, on the charge of stealing a heifer from near Neabsen Mills, has been mentioned to the Gazette. Mr. Jas. Dixon, the agent of Miss Mary E. Leggett, from whom the animal was stolen, was present and fully identified it. The negrees were found guilty and sentenced to receive thirty lashes each, which were laid oo, at the station heuse, by officers Horseman and Goodrich.

Three lodgers were at the station house on Saturday night, and eleven last night. Martha Meyers, colored for assaulting and biting her daughter, was sent to jail by Justice l'adgett in default of paymont of costes Sontenced.

NEW York, Dec. 23 .- James Kearney, leader of the Third avenue our strikers, convicted of assaulting non striking drivers, was to day sentenced in General Sessions to three months in the penicentiary.

A MCVABLE CITY .- Captain John Codman, in a letter from Oneids, on the line of the Utah and Northern Railroad, in process of construction from Orden to Mantone, says:

Cheida is a walking town. It jumps along as the read progresses. Hotels, houses, stores, saioons, stables and all other buildings are put up in sections, marked and numbered. When the active superintendent gives the order the whole town is taken to pieces in two days, packed on the train and with all its inhabitants moved storg to the next stopping place.

New streets are then laid out, and a new city formed of the old materials, springs into life, flourisping until fifty miles more of railroad is completed. Then it jumps again. Thus it will continue to jump till the traveling municipality is merged in the permanent city of Virginia or Helena, at whichever of them the road may terminate. It is artistactory to its managers that it pays a fair interest on its cost.

Oneida seemed to us full of life and vigor. As we came out from our course boarded, tentcovered hotel in the morning, we saw horses, wagons and teamsters, camped far and near The men were turning out rubbing their eyes, expisuatory of the infernal racket of music and dancing we had heard in the night, when saloons and laro-tables were doing their profitable business The train had come in loaded with freight, consisting of all kinds of merchandise and agricultural tools. Twenty-six wagons with their four-horse teams were drawn up at the station waiting to re load and begin their long journey of three hundred miles, the coaches having already departed with their passengers. Their owners and drivers will doubtiess regret every shortening of fity miles, but the owners of the goods and the tired travoters will rejoice. Many more wagons with their downward ireights of builion, and ores of silver, copper and lead, were discharging their loads, and our hotel was filled with jaded, dusty passengers, who congratulated themselves on the comfort in store for them in the easy motion and rapid transit of a railroad car. Each of the coaches that had arrived carried three of Wells, Farge & Co's, messengers, with double-barreled guns, loaded with buckshot, and they were preceded by forerunners on horseback, armed in the same way. This is the old style of traveling in these territories, and do you wonder if the new style is a welcome improvement. MOVENPUL STATICS .- France is usually supposed to head the list in regard to suicides, and we are told that in the old days of the Quartier Latin the young people the etudient and grizette would retire to the garret when the money failed and the stern parent threw them off, light a charcoal fire in the middle of the room and expire in each other's arms. Last year, however, the tables of mortality shouther in Smitgarland. the tables of mortality show that in Switzerland three hundred and ninety-seven people comwitted suicide, which is at a rate of one in every 4,000 inhabitants, a greater proportion than in any other country in Europe. If the report be true concerning the number of suicides among the troops in Bulgaria, Russia will probably be

MARRIAGE OF MISS EDITH MAY .- MISS Edith Sybil May, the eldest daughter of Dr. Frederick J. May, late of Washington, but now of New York, was married on Thursday afterof New York, was marri Easteruri, Wiltsbice, England. The cereits rector. No invitations had been formally is. sources. sued, but the church was filled with friends of with auburn hair, was attired in an elaborate and costly bridal dress of white satin, with orange veil and flowers complete. The bridegroom was stout and of florid complexion. He wore black throughout, as did his groomsmac. Dr. May gave away his daughter. After the ceremony there was a reception en famile at the residence of the bride's parents. The bridal pair expect to depart soon for Europe to spend the honeymoon at Mr. Randolph's seat at Eastcourt, Wilishire. Miss Edith May will be remembared for her brave conduct at the time of the disaster to the yacht Mohawk off the club house on Staten Island. The groom marries for the second time. His first wife, Miss of the fourth Earl of Roseberry, and a second time of his marriage to Miss Primrose, April 28, 1864, Capt. Randolph bore the name which he had inherited of Arthur Randolph Mulliogs. He had previously sold out of the army, in which he held a commission as captain in the Fifteenth or King's Hussars, now commanded by Geo. Key. This marriage was subsequently dissolved, and siene then Capt. Randolph has dropped the same of Mullings in compliance with the conditions appeared to the transfer of
